Advice for Illnesses

We've been asked by the Health Protection Hub to share some information with you on health-related issues - when your child should and shouldn't attend school and how best to keep them healthy.

- Minor cough or common cold - they can come into school if well enough.
- If they have diarrhoea and/or vomiting, stay home for at least 48 hours after the last episode.
- It is no longer recommended that children and young people are routinely tested for COVID-19 unless directed to by a health professional.

Vaccines provide the best protection against many common but potentially serious illnesses. Over the past decade, fewer children are getting routine vaccines, putting them at risk of serious disease. This leaves schools vulnerable to outbreaks and increases pressure on the NHS. If your child is up to date with their NHS vaccination schedule, they will already be protected against diseases like whooping cough, measles, mumps and rubella throughout their school career, as most provide lifelong immunity. Unvaccinated children are at higher risk of contracting these illnesses and having more severe symptoms than vaccinated classmates. They can also spread diseases to others. Good hygiene also stops infections from spreading, which means less disrupted learning time. You can help by teaching your child to wash hands properly for 20 seconds, use tissues for coughs and sneezes, and stay away from others when sick. Letting in fresh air can also reduce the spread of airborne viruses.
